

PFAS Statement

To address PFAS-related matters, The CRI makes the following statement:

For decades, the carpet manufacturing industry has continually evaluated its products and processes to reflect evolving science, innovation, and customer expectations. CRI members proactively take action, often in advance of regulatory requirements. Years ago, The CRI members moved away from using PFAS-based soil and stain-treatment products for carpet. Today's carpet products reflect decades of progress, and The CRI members remain committed to moving forward responsibly.
